City Guide

Things to do

- Tivoli: famous amusement park that is the second oldest one in the world. Enjoy rides and food here. Make sure to stay into the evening hours in order to see it light up at night. Free concerts on Fridays during the summer. Be sure to lock out for discounts/packages on the website.
- Amager Strandpark: DIS created a beach day for students here. There is 4.6 miles of public beaches. Visitors can run, swim, kayak, paddle board and so much more! Find a large platform to jump off of down one of the piers.
- Christiania: This is a neighborhood in Copenhagen labeled as “Freetown Christiania.” Many visitors come here to enjoy the creative nature of the community.
- Grønbaek: Rent a gondola with a group of 8 or less and explore the canals of Copenhagen by boat. One can rent it for 1 or 2 hours and follow a marked path. Bring a picnic to enjoy on the table that stands in the center. Visit website dik to book it.

Little update on class:
Went back in Vienna (feels like forever ago), I talked about a presentation about Otto Wagner. That was the first project for German 102. Each student in German 102 has to do one presentation and one written report. Since I did a presentation already, it was time for me to do a written report. The report has to be on a memorial. Berlin is full of memorials.

Sophia and I, both in German 102, took the 200 bus and went searching for memorials. We found ourselves at the Tiergarten where we found a lot of Prussian memorials (which are unfortunately excluded from the options we could do our projects on, as the scope of these last two weeks of class are around WWII memorials).

The excursion was fun nevertheless, as we quickly got lost and found ourselves in Großer Stern and then on the top of the Victory
Example Outreach Projects

• Lead a student organization for study abroad alumni

• Network with the Greek Community and conduct information sessions at council meetings

• Organize a Summer Travel Study Mentorship Program

• Coordinate special events, such as International Culture Night, Movie Screenings, Bruins Around the World

• Promote and feature Correspondent projects through social media
