Oro Molido Foundation

Company Description

Intern Colombia is working with a non-profit organization that was created in 2015 in Medellin, Colombia with the purpose of bringing together resources, both private and public, to support developing coffee growing communities in the Department of Antioquia through alleviating poverty, improving education, preserving sustainable farming techniques to protect the environment and providing access to basic healthcare. They create & manage urban development plans that guarantee a secure and positive transformation of these coffee growing communities. Their projects always aim to involve as many community members as possible and provide them with tools to make sustainable changes in their community and create a self-sustaining model for the community, preventing a situation of dependence on outside help.
