

Engineering

Internships

In Japan

Company	Description
Environmental Technology Company	Placement at an international, volunteer-centered organization devoted to open citizen science for the environment. The company has deployed an innovative model of rapid integrated development, including hardware design, software design, engineering and science, visual design and communication, and social design factors.
Health and Fitness Technology Company	A startup that helps people live healthier and longer lives. Their product is a urine analyzer which provides instant feedback to help people improve their health and fitness.
Robotic Company	A company that designs, manufactures, and oversees the sales of robot actuators and software development.
Artificial Intelligence Start-up	Support a company that is looking into prototyping and creating a commercial robot, developing different education and business supports with AI, and delivering a quarterly zine looking at AI trends and new products.
Educational Tech Company	Developer of HTML5 content, that is co-develops an e-learning business solution with clients to meet the business goals of clients, and by providing total support, will play an important alliance partner role.
Creative Software Development	Support a company that has delivered successfully on over 50 software development projects with a number of technologies including VR, web, mobile and plenty more. We hire the best and most creative people in order to execute on your designs and projects. With a portfolio of client-work, as well as our own tools, product and technology, let us help you make your dreams come a reality.
Prototyping Company	Work in teams of Mechanical and Electrical engineers to develop and test product prototypes including small consumer designs to large scale installations.
Creative AI Company	Support an incubator housed at a local university working to create a autonomous AI system for visual content creation which can be applied to other industries.