Almado

Almado is an impact consulting firm that seeks to enable organizations to generate new opportunities for all sectors of society, by tackling social exclusion to restore dignity and untap potential. Efforts are focused on slums and delivering pragmatic solutions that link the public and private sector to create sustainable change. Their goal is to co-create systemic, strategic, and large-scale solutions to the profound problems of the marginalized sectors of society. The aim is to make this happen by building powerful cross-sector partnerships which take a collaborative and strategic approach to tackling poverty by working with partners who provide innovative, rigorously person-centered solutions. Since 2016, the organization has been engaged in a 5-year, US$450 million budget project to work alongside the over 400 people that make up the Secretariat of the Government of the City of Buenos Aires in order to integrate the slum “Villa 31” into the city; both physically, in terms of infrastructure and housing services, and socially, in terms of education, employment, and support, in order to undertake the integration process as effectively, efficiently, and sustainably as possible.

Website: almado.com.ar
Sector: For-Profit Company
Industry: Community Engagement & Advocacy; Government & Public Policy; Urban Planning

Examples of possible intern roles:

BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT INTERN

The intern will be tasked with:

- Qualitative and quantitative analysis of data to improve performance of customer processes
- Design of commercial proposals for clients
- Reports for decision making
- Research of opportunities to boost impact and performance
- Development of monitoring boards
- Follow-up of implementation plans and programs
- Development of internal management indicators

Suggested Spanish level: No Spanish Required

Candidate requirements: Academic background in Engineering, Economics, Business Administration, Accounting, and related careers. Proven work experience related to the generation of analysis for decision making and presentations. Advanced management of Excel and PowerPoint.
In the words of past interns: “I have learned so much about the cities and countries in which Almado has executed its people-centric approach in order to sustainably alleviate poverty. [Some strengths]: Extremely kind team, employees invest in personal growth, amazing impact generated by the company, wonderful mission and culture that aligns with those values. [My experience with Almado has given me] an amazing step in my professional development trajectory and more confidence in my abilities!” - Nikhil G., Business Development Intern, from University of Pennsylvania